ASKER NYGAARD CHRISTENSEN[1]

Last updated: October 2026. Website.

Department of Economics, University of Copenhagen ◇ hms467@econ.ku.dk

Academic Positions

Postdoc from January 2027
Department of Economics, University of Copenhagen

PhD Student 2022-2026
Department of Economics, University of Copenhagen

Affiliations

The Danish Agency for Labour Market and Recruitment (STAR) 2022-2026

Education

PhD in Economics (4+4 programme) 2022-2026
University of Copenhagen
Thesis: Meandering Through Labour Economics: Mental Well-being, Misperceptions, and Milieu in the Labour Market. Defended September 2026.

Visiting PhD Student fall 2024-spring 2025
Cornell University, visiting Michèle Belot

MSc in Economics 2021-2024
University of Copenhagen
Obtained as part of the 4+4 programme

BSc in Economics 2017-2020
University of Copenhagen

Publications

Peer-Reviewed Journal Articles

- Arnarson, B. T., A. N. David, B. S. Javorcik and J. R. Munch. "Globalisation and the Gender Gap in Mental Well-Being." Journal of International Economics.
  Published under the name Asker Nygaard David, see footnote 1)

Peer-Reviewed Working Papers

- A. N. Christensen, N. A. Harmon, S. Settele and D. Skandalis. 2026. "Relative Wage Misperceptions and Early Career Job Search." ROCKWOOL Fonden, Study Paper No. 279.

Peer-Reviewed Book Contributions

- Munch, J. R., B. T. Arnarson, A. N. Christensen, D. Hémous, A. Humlum, B. Javorcik, B. B. Meyer, M. Olsen, P. Plato, M. Rasmussen and E. Vestergaard, Omstilling på Arbejdsmarkedet – Globalisering, Automatisering og Uddannelse. ROCKWOOL Fondens Forskningsenhed og Syddansk Universitetsforlag.

[1] I am getting married in October 2026, so future publications will be under the name Asker Nygaard David.

Previous Employment

Research Assistant, University of Copenhagen 2019-2022
Under the supervision of Prof. Jakob Roland Munch
Data processing and analysis using Danish administrative register data on topics in international, labour, and gender economics.

Student Assistant, Dansk Energi 2018-2019

Research Interests

My research interests are in labour economics and applied microeconometrics with a particular focus on job search, information frictions, gender economics, and text analysis/NLP methods applied to labour market data.

Keywords: Labour Economics, Applied Microeconometrics, Job Search, Text Analysis/NLP

Teaching Experience

Co-lecturer spring 2023, 2024
Introduction to Programming and Numerical Analysis, UCPH

Teaching Assistant spring 2020, 2021
Introduction to Programming and Numerical Analysis, UCPH

Conferences & Presentations

Conference Presentations with Peer-Reviewed Admission

- 2025: European Economic Association Annual Congress, Bordeaux; European Society for Population Economics (ESPE).
- 2023: Gender Gaps Conference, Warsaw (GRAPE).

Other Presentations

- 2025: PhD Seminar, University of Copenhagen; Copenhagen Workshop on Job Search and Micro Data, University of Copenhagen.
- 2024: CoLab Seminar, University of Copenhagen; Labor Work-in-Progress Seminar, Cornell University; The Danish Agency for Labour Market and Recruitment (STAR); TWIPS, Cornell University.
- 2023: Rockwool Foundation Research Unit.
- 2022: Sardinian Empirical Trade Conference (F.R.E.I.T.) (Participant); Danish Graduate Program in Economics (DGPE) Workshop; CoLab Lunch Workshop, University of Copenhagen.

Grants & Awards

2024: Zeuthen Prize Nominee for best Master's Thesis in Economics. Support for Cornell visit: Flemming og Judy Heilmann stipendiet, Viet-Jacobsen, Rudolph Als Fondet, William Demant, Knud Højgaards fond, Augustinus Fonden.

Other Qualifications

Languages: Danish (native), English (fluent)
Programming: Python (advanced), Stata (advanced), SAS (intermediate), Julia (intermediate)